AN ADDRESS

To Christians of every Denomination
IN THE
UNITED STATES;

ON THE

Subject of the ensuing Presidential Election

[CONCLUDED.]

Friends, countrymen, and fellow Christians, ponder well these things. You have many reasons for regarding the Secretary of State as an unbeliever. You have no reason to regard him as a Christian. He has never shown you his faith by his works; no, nor by his professions either; so that you may presume, without incharitableness, that it does not exist. Nay, he probably would not thank you for allowing him any credit on the score of discipleship to a system, a belief in which he considers as an instance of great imbecility of mind.* So far from wishing to be esteemed a believer in this system, he may possibly value himself in sneering above such vulgar prejudices, and, with other sublime speculations on man, perceive such a degree of perfectibility in his nature, as may ensure his happiness without any reference to another world.

Who but must smile, if such a man there be;
Who would not weep, if Madison were he?

Weep indeed, with tears of blood, should we see the supreme executive power of a Christian nation vested in a man, who probably conceives Christianity with all its doctrines and sanctions to be nothing more than a cunningly devised fable, or something still more despicable? O! that I possessed a voice that could speak in thunder from Maine to Georgia, and echo through all our borders the awful injunction:

"Discite justitiam moniti, et non temere Divos."—Virgil.

Full solemnity indeed are we warned to this national duty. The further we extend our researches, political, or historical, the less do we find any thing, which, in governments and states, and in the revolutions of governments, is absolutely new in kind, but in degree, new beyond comparison. The infidelity and profaneness of hereditary rulers do not always involve the guilt, or carry with them the punishment of nations. As the people do not concur in their elevation, so neither do they always partake in their crimes. Whole profligate dynasties have been swept away without any material disadvantage to the people at large.
The expulsion of the Stewarts proved a signal blessing to Great Britain and Ireland.
But this is not the case with America. The sins of her rulers will be visited upon their constituents; upon those who deliberately either mediately or immediately, invest them with the execution of the laws, and thus constitute them the delegates of Heaven upon earth. What an awful responsibility is this? and if it be disregarded by professing Christians, can they be surprised, if they do not find mercy in this day of wrath, horror and convulsion? Let any dispassionate observer contemplate the national appearances of the present moment, the close of the eight years of Mr. Jefferson's elevation.
Let him look steadfastly at the signs of the times, and say whether they do not portend disasters of no common magnitude; whether the warnings of the Lord are not abroad in the land, to caution this most favored nation against the repetition of an offence, which on the score of inadvertence and partial ignorance he is pleased, for once, perhaps to overlook. Another deliberate choice of an unbelieving president, may very probably fill up the measure of our guilt, and then the storm which is hovering over the country will burst upon it with a desolating violence, which no mortal power can arrest.
"Bodies of men," says an animated Christian writer, "are punishable in this world only. In eternity there are no families, churches or nations. If, therefore, a country is to be destroyed, it is tried, and condemned, and executed here below. When we see an individual sinner prospering in the world, and not immediately punished, our faith is not staggered; for we know that his day is coming. But if a wicked people were allowed to escape, we should be confounded; we should ask: "where is the God of judgment? For, in this case, they are not punished now; and they cannot be punished hereafter." O! my fellow Christians, by

* The Secretary once told a respectable character still living, after some sarcasms on the Christian religion, that it was all a fable, and would no more promote salvation than the fabulous legends of the heathen deities.

† Learn to do justice and severe religion.
‡ See Jay's sermon, On nature as kingdom.

whatever name ye are called, O! prize a native American, a sincere lover of his country, and one who glories in his membership with the household of faith, to call your attention to this awful subject. It is no party question, which you are invited to discuss. Whether a federal or a democratic republican be the object of your choice, is not a matter that involves the inviolability of conscience. "The kingdom of God is not of this world." It may be established in the hearts of those, whose temporal preferences may be in opposite directions. It may flourish in the monarchist, and in the republican through all the changes and varieties of these political denominations. But it surely possesses no place in his esteem and affections, who, on his bended knees can say, in the morning, "Thy kingdom come," and yet, before the close of the day, can bestow his suffrage on the oppressor of this kingdom: who, with the same breath can join with the faithful in Hozannahs to the Most High, and "in cruelty him, away with him," with the enemies of his ministers, and the scoffers at his name.

Fellow Christians of every denomination!
Presbyterians, Episcopalians, Methodists, Baptists, Roman Catholics, Friends, Moravians, and ye of every other name, who all profess to adore and serve the Eternal, and to love the Lord Jesus in sincerity, let your religious principles have their natural influence upon your conduct on this occasion, and the purpose of this address will be fully answered. A candid recurrence to these principles will readily induce the warmest admirer, both of the president and secretary, to say to himself, shall I continue to esteem Mr. Jefferson, shall I continue to respect Mr. Madison, when this esteem and respect interferes with my God and his sacred cause? The kingdom of God and his righteousness in every occurrence of life, must be the principal object of a Christian's attention. The highest pretensions to sanctity will otherwise incur the suspicion of insincerity, if not of hypocrisy. Can, for instance, a devout disciple of the zealous Calvin, who adheres to the system of that illustrous reformer, because he deems it calculated, more than any other, to promote the supremacy of the divine agency in man, to level every lofty pretension of the human heart, and to establish the sovereignty of the Lord Jesus upon the ruins of innate pride and presumption—can such a person, I say, contribute deliberately to place a man at the head of a nation, who, disregarding or despising the humbling doctrines of the cross, has been always regarded as an adherer of that system, which in direct contradiction to the spirit of the gospel contemplates the perfectibility of man, and is ever suggesting wild experiments upon this sandy foundation —who denies the original depravity of human nature, though continually experiencing its effects in himself, and observing them in his fellow men?

Can the Episcopalian, with hosts of illutrious champions in the cause of religion full in view, with the animating recollection of a Boyle, a Newton, a Hale, an Addison, a Johnson a Cowper, and other innumerable worthies; with the cheering examples of the godly & learned Prelates & Divines who have sealed with their blood, and illustrated by their writings, the sacred tenets of their faith; who have contributed so powerfully, and (God be praised) so effectually to stem the torrent of mad Philosophy, let loose, in judgment, upon the continent of Europe, and actually sweeping away all the ancient boundaries of law, liberty, and religion—can the Episcopalian, I say, with these glorious patterns before his eyes; with the Christian doctrines of his church operating upon his heart; endeavor to promote a man, as the object of his choice, whose partiality to French governors and French opinions, must create a hatred to what he well knows to be among the principal bulwarks of Christendom?

What shall I say to my brethren of the Methodist society? or rather what would the zealous and indefatigable Mr. Wesley say to them, on the present occasion? With all the powers of his persuasive eloquence, he would remind his followers of the deadly guilt in which they must be involved, who, on any account, take part with an influence, whether religious or political, that bears upon its forehead any marks of Anti-christ. In a voice whispering the soft as-suptions of love, or thundering out the terrors of the law, he would display the imminent danger connected with intercommunion with Belial; he would say of every sect evincing any interest in the success of Apollyon, "the great exterminator: "Come out of her, my people, that ye partake not of her plagues; "promote no man to power, who is not a follower of the Lamb, and bears about him no marks of the Redeemer. Remember, O my beloved children! the long niteur.

and painful labors of your aged father in calling sinners to repentance, in discharging the feelings, in demonstrating the power and the comforts of religion, and then tell me, will ye choose that man to rule over you, who derides these feelings, derides the power, and despises these comforts? Let the disciples of John Wesley listen to his warning voice, and no methodist will be found among the Secretary's supporters.

Fellow Christians of the Baptist society! ye whom the spirit of God has prompted to send forth, with peculiar zeal, the heralds of salvation among the heathen; whose missionary spirit is highly cheering and edifying to the church of Christ; whose zeal in promoting his kingdom seems ardent and unabating; will ye not show the kind reproach of pulling down with one hand, and heavenly kingdom, which ye strive so earnestly to establish with the other? In advancing an unbeliever to the presidential chair, what answer would ye return to the sacred objector who should tell you, that the conversion of a Pagan Nabob in India would but ill-compensate for the elevation of a National citizen at home: and that the sanguinity of those who will be ever questioning, who sacrifice, in the smallest degree, the interests of religion to the spirit of party.

Roman Catholics of America! I presume it is almost needless to claim your attention on this occasion. Your feelings, as well as your opinions, must beat in unison with the spirit of this address. You cannot surely contemplate two of your venerable pontiffs insulted, vilified, degraded, and plundered by an impious power, profligate by Antichristian, and yet contribute to continue that power, to augment and exalt it, by placing at the head of the American nation, a man notoriously devoted to that power, and opposed to every exertion that is making to control it. What think ye of the horrid sacrifice perpetrated at the moment by the armies of France in the temples of Spain? of the profanation committed against some of the most sacred objects of your religious veneration? Never did the Goths or the Moors insult, with fiercer atrocious, the emblems of your worship.
Think of the gallant Spaniards rising up to repel these atheistical invaders of their country, of its rights both civil and religious, and then say, what ought to be your line of conduct? Will you support a presidential candidate, whose advocates are receding and deriding the glorious struggle of Spain, for all that man hold most dear upon earth? who call her resistance insurrection, and wish to behold her within the grasp of the universal destroyer? The secretary is a warm admirer of France; a warm wisher to her cause. Can he then be a friend to Christianity? Can he be a friend to the Roman Catholic Religion? Whoever will lay his hand upon his heart and answer this question candidly, will be cautious how he votes on the present occasion. Roman Catholics, of all others, have experienced the most direful effects of Gallic despotism under every form, and I trust they will look with a jealous eye on every man, who exhibits the most distant predilection for the Monster. To admire it in any shape, is to be half subdued by his wiles.

A few words to the peaceable followers of William Penn, shall conclude this address. They surely will bear their full and zealous testimony on the present occasion.
They will bear it to the system of politics most opposed to the introduction of misrule and anarchy among us. They will bear it to the men who profess to tread the steps of our beloved Washington; who hold in equal veneration the sacred rights of liberty and of conscience; who scout the baneful idea of substituting the maxims of French Philosophists for the wisdom of the Gospel.
They will bear it against the advocates, or the dupes of a nation, which emphatically delights in war, and which, if once admitted to control the destinies of America, as they boast is actually the case, would level the first blow of their arrogant power at the simplicity of manners, those habits of virtuous regularity and retirement, which distinguish so eminently the society of Friends, and in which they would experience the principal obstacle to the introduction of their licentious principles and unbounded rapacity.
Friends, I trust, will never countenance any man, nor trust him with the government of these States, who has evinced a decided predilection to this desolating system engendered in blood, involving in promiscuous ruin all the charities of life, trampling upon all human laws, and daring even to defy the Omnipotent to arms. From this venerable society, these children of peace, these friends to religion, America hopes confidently for better things. She hopes that with her sober sons professing the name of Christ, they will cordially unite in preserving the chair of state pure from Paganical contamination.

She left Plymouth on the 17th

Lisbon on the 31st, and on the morn-of the 1st inst. took her departure for place.
The intelligence she has brought is very important.
At Lisbon in Portugal—Surrender of the French Army.
On the 19th of August, near Mafra, was a partial action between the British army, under the command of Sir Arthur Wellesley, and the French under General Junot, in which the former lost upwards of 1000 men and two field officers; one of whom was Col. Lake, of the 29th regiment, which, with the German Legion suffered severely. On the 21st, a general action took place; Junot's army was completely defeated, with the loss of 5000 men, wounded and prisoners; our loss 800. On the night of the 22d, an arrangement for the suspension of hostilities between the British and French armies, preparatory to an arrangement of a convention for the evacuation of Portugal by the latter, was entered into. On the 30th the convention was completed: Junot and his army were to march out of Lisbon with the honor of war, and to return to France in British transports, which were assembling in the Tagus. The French, while outlines of the convention were in discussion, urged that the Russian ships should be permitted to return home, which was refused, and our surrender we have no doubt, was made in the present month. Junot's army, at the time of its surrender, amounted to 10000 men.

The troops under the command of Sir John Burard were landing at Peniche during the action of the 21st.
Joseph Bonaparte is said to have taken a strong position at Burgos, about 117 miles from Madrid, with 40,000 men.

The following copy of a letter from Sir A.
Wellesley to Captain Malcolm, of his majesty's ship Donnegal, was received by the Larydice:

CAMP AT HOWELL, Aug. 23, 1808.

I have the honor to inform you that an arrangement for the suspension of hostilities,
between the British and French armies, pre-
for the evacuation of Portugal by the latter, was signed last night by the direction of the commander in chief.
The commander in chief has directed me to inform you that he has received orders to send to England all the horse ships now in Portugal, with the exception of those which will have brought out the 18th, light dragons; and he concludes you will receive orders from the admiral to send them to England without loss of time.

He wishes, however, that all other transports, whether in the Mondego river, at Oporto or off Mondego, should be brought to the mouth of the Tagus, without loss of time, and he has desired me to request, that you will give directions that they may be sent to that station. I have the honor to be,

As it is now three months since any accounts have been received from the island of Guadaloupe; and as there are, probably, 60 or 70 American vessels embargoed in that place, it is in serious contemplation to petition the President for PERMISSION to send out one or more vessels, with provisions for the unfortunate American seamen, who, in all probability, are confined there in a state of starvation.

FROM HALIFAX.

By a gentleman who left Halifax 14 days ago, and arrived here in the sloop Elizabeth, capt. Damerell, from Deer Island, we have the following information: The preparation of this apparent important expedition which has been in agitation for some time past is now nearly completed; the time is improved with the greatest diligence to facilitate their departure. The ships now in readiness for this secret object are 19, most of which are of the line, and 100 transports with flat bottomed boats built on a new construction, for the purpose of landing in shoal water, 80 of these are completed and others preparing with the utmost dispatch; 15,000 troops are ready to embark and waiting the arrival of a reinforcement, which sailed from Portsmouth the 3d of August under convoy; 60 horses with equipments for flying artillery, attended with infantry and camp equipage for 30,000 men, were all embarked prior to the 20th ult. There are various conjectures relative to the destination of the fleet, the opinions of many are that the object is New Orleans or the Floridas.

Every stranger is strictly scrutinized and arrested if a passport cannot be produced, designating his business.

By the arrival this forenoon of the schr.
Traveller, captain Thompson, from Martinique, we learn, that the markets at that place were extremely high. Flour was selling for $40 per barrel—butter per pound $2 25 cents—beef per barrel $40—pork $50 —tobacco none in market.

Three schrs. had arrived at St. Pierres, laden with provisions and fish, having by accident been blown off the United States coast.

It appears by our foreign intelligence that Lucien Bonaparte has been applying for passports to come to the U. States. What he can be coming here for at this time, we are unable to conjecture unless the presidency of the U. States has been transferred to him, as the sovereignty of Spain, was to his brother.—U. S. Gazette.

HAVANNA, Sept. 22.

The Governor of Jamaica, has just communicated to me by a dispatch, the following news, which you will publish in your paper of to-morrow.

His B. M. ship —, spoke off the island of Tenerife a packet from Cadiz, who informed that Murat had been completely defeated, taken prisoner and sent to Seville; that Dupont had died of chagrin. The unfortunate Carlos IVth, had died a natural death, the queen was dangerously ill, and the prince of peace hourly expected to experience the same; the Fernando 7th, was in Spain, and the continental powers had already decided in conjunction with the English to co-operate in the extinction of Corsican Tyranny; and that the French leaders confidant of being executed by all christendom had taken the bold step of demanding that Napoleon should be arrested, which had been put into execution. The province of Gascony and Roussillon had declared that they would oppose any French forces that attempted to enter Spain.—In exterminating the French forces from Catalonia, 40,000 Spaniards fell a sacrifice, whose memory will ever be dear to the survivors.

This moment a private messenger has arrived from Havana, who assures us that there was a signal flying at the Moro Castle for a packet from Spain, which is undoubtedly the one which gave rise to the above communication from the gov. of Jamaica to that of this island.

respectability, in the Mississippi territory, to his friend in Chillicothe, dated Aug.
23, 1808.*

"A few days ago, not far from the place where a camp meeting was held, a white man whipt a drunken Indian because he would not consent for him to cut a bee tree he had found. The Indian sent a runner to the towns, and fifteen or sixteen of his friends came, painted themselves black, went to Montgomery's house, (the man who whipt the Indian) scared them away, plundered the house, set fire to it, and went off.
The whites collected, about twenty-two in number, pursued and overtook the Indians, had a skirmish, in which one Indian was killed, and one white man wounded: the Indians kept the ground. This caused a great alarm. The people are fortifying—troops are ordered out to guard the frontiers. What will be the consequence, is not for me to predict."

In reviewing the affairs of Europe, the mind is filled with astonishment, and the events which are passing before us, more resemble fable than history. The reverse in the affairs of France has exceeded all that has passed since the commencement of her revolution, when we compare the magnitude of the events with the shortness of the time.
In little more than two months, two nations have been delivered from the dominion of Napoleon, nothing short of one hundred thousand of his bravest troops have fallen by the sword and disease, or have been forced to surrender prisoners of war: France and her ally, Russia, have lost 15 sail of the line with six frigates, and nearly 10,000 seamen.
Austria, it appears will be soon added to the number of her enemies, and another combination in the north of Europe take place.

ANOTHER WARNING.

Extract of a letter from Pablo Serra, of the Havana, dated September 21.

"We have had a second meeting of planters and merchants, to deliberate on our situation; and it was decided to admit neutral vessels with every description of goods, until Spain shall be in a situation to provide for our wants.

"We expect large supplies from England, and I think it would be of great importance to America to raise the Embargo before our people learn to do without your trade—for otherwise you may be excluded entirely by an arrangement with England, which may be easily effected, under our present impression of your attachment to France, and hostility to our glorious cause. (B. N. Am.

Honorable Testimony.—"I know of no man," said the late General Hamilton, "who so nearly resembles Washington, in all his great and enviable qualities, as Charles Cotesworth Pinckney." Can there be higher evidence of worth and greatness, than such an eulogium from such a man?—

Valuable Family Medicines.

The following well known genuine Medicines, from Hannah Lee's Patent Medicine Store, New York, are constantly kept for sale by James Kennedy, senr.

BOOKSELLER, KING-STREET,

And no where else in Alexandria.

Prevention better than Cure.

FOR the prevention and cure of Bilious and Malignant Fevers, is recommended HAHN'S ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS, prepared (only) at Lee's Patent Medicine Store, No. 55 Maiden Lane.

This medicine has, for nine years past, been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings, in several parts of the West Indies, and the southern states, particularly in Baltimore, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk, Edenton, Wilmington, Charleston and Savannah. The testimony of a number of persons in each of the above places has been adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature, speak more in favor of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion could do.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience, for believing that a dose of these pills, taken once every two weeks, during the prevalence of malarious fevers, will prove an infallible preventative—and further, that in the early stages of these diseases, their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate, and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation, and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile, and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite, produce a free perspiration, and thereby prevent colds, which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold, if taken on its first appearance. They are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness, sickness at the stomach, and a severe head ache, and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured, and carefully preserved by every seaman.

From one to three or four of the pills are a dose which may be repeated as circumstances require.

In sickly times or places, a dose should be taken every fortnight, and if there is reason to apprehend personal danger, it may be taken once a week.

Certificate of Mr. Wm. Devenney.

During the last nine years, I have been in the habit of using Hahn's Anbilious Pills, prepared by the late Mr. Lee, whenever colds, headache, or costiveness have rendered medicine necessary; in these cases a single dose has uniformly removed my headache, and has generally been found sufficient to remove every symptom of a cold if taken on its first appearance. Induced by the benefit received, I have for years past recommended them to many of my friends, and I have the pleasure to inform you, they have invariably succeeded in removing the above complaints.

Yours, &c. WM. DEVENNEY.

Warranted to cure by once using, and to be free from Mercury or any pernicious or offensive ingredient, &c. may with perfect safety be applied to the youngest infant.

Hannah Lee, Patent Medicine Store, New York, Sept. 10, 1808.

The following new and valuable Medicine, just received and for sale as above.

(Price, Two Dollars per bottle.)
Dr. Tissot's celebrated Gout and Rheumatic Drops.

NOTHING is of more importance than the preservation of health—this common lacep remark however is too often forgotten, whilst we are active and strong—and prevention of pain, which is superior to its cure, is not sufficiently attended to by any description of persons. Among those disorders which require the most early and unremitting efforts to eradicate and overcome, none have a stronger claim upon our notice than the Gout, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Weakness of the Joints, Sprains, Gleet, the Stone and Gravel, the Cramp and every species of Rheumatic Pains from whatever cause they may have originated—and hence every relief which can be administered is too valuable to be forgotten.—Those persons whose avocations peculiarly expose them to colds, &c. cannot be too anxious always to possess immediate aid. Seafaring persons, travellers, &c. ought constantly to carry with them that medicine which will counteract the unpleasant effects of their perilous duties, and especially those pains to which their situation must expose them. To those who reside in or visit the West-Indies, and other warm climates, they will be found upon trial to convey the most healing service and will gradually destroy all tendency to disease in the human frame, and preserve health and vigor. Although a great variety of prescriptions have been published to cure the disorders enumerated above, none has yet equalled the GOUT AND RHEUMATIC DROPS of Dr. TISSOT, which are celebrated throughout the European continent, and whose unbounded benefits are fully authenticated by certificates already published of gentlemen so well known in America, being of the first consequence in the state of Maryland: General Charles Ridgely, of Hampton; John Gibson, Esq. one of the directors of the Farmers' Bank of Maryland; John Macnabbin, Esq. Mrs. Macnabbin, his wife; and Mrs. Ryan, of Calver.

Certificate of Mr. Thomas Kelso, butcher.
About three weeks since I was most violently attacked with Rheumatic pains throughout my whole frame, in so severe a manner as not to be able to turn in my bed without assistance proceeding as I suppose from a severe cold to being advised by a friend to apply Dr. Tissot's Gout and Rheumatic Drops, I accordingly obtained from the agents Messrs. George Dobbin and Murphy, two bottles, the application of which, under God, have perfectly restored me to health. I am therefore induced with confidence to recommend this medicine as a certain cure for the above disorder.

THOMAS KELSO.
Baltimore, July 22d, 1806.

Certificate of Mr. Thomas Campbell, Harness maker.
It would be an act of injustice to withhold my testimony of the salutary effects of Doctor Tissot's Gout and Rheumatic Drops, as I have experienced a very unequivocal instance of their virtues and efficacy. I was afflicted with two severe attacks of what is usually called Dead Palsy, from which I partially recovered but was obliged to use crutches to aid me in walking when I left home; to this were joined violent Rheumatic pains, the result of the affliction, and I had feared the disorder would accompany me through life; but providentially was recommended to apply to George Dobbin and Murphy's for Dr. Tissot's Drops, and after using only one bottle, found myself perfectly liberated from my disorder, and am now, thank God, as free from pain as if I never had been afflicted. Finding this medicine operate so powerfully on myself, I determined to apply it internally to my child, a boy only eleven months old, who was then reduced almost to a skeleton with the Bowel Complaint; after administering it four times to him, his complaint was entirely removed, and he is now recovering his strength with great rapidity.
